Splashpad at Rotary Centennial Park

The Newberg Wastewater Treatment Plant Project Team provided the design and build of a children's splashpad as a community project for the City of Newberg. The team worked with Chehalem Park and Recreation District, Newberg City Council, and local Rotary clubs in development of the project.

The community has expressed support for having a splashpad in Newberg. In fact, a petition with nearly 300 signatures was created by a mother living in Newberg, requesting a splashpad, just weeks before Mortenson approached CPRD and the City with the desire to build a splashpad. The Newberg team reached out to local subcontractors and suppliers to procure approximately $50,000 of donated labor and materials.
